

Aren't you just bored with all those slides-based presentations?

Follow along at <http://172.30.7.195:8080:8080>

Don't you think
given in modern
shouldn't copy 1
'classic' slide de

ed with all presentations?

:8080:8080

Don't you think that presentations
given in modern browsers shouldn't copy the limits of
'classic' slide decks?

Would you like to
impress your audience with stunning visual talk?

t presentations
rowsers
limits of
>

Would you like to
impress your audience with
stunning visualization of your
talk?

Aren't you just bored with all those slides-based presentations?

Follow along at
<http://172.30.7.195:8080:8080>

Don't you think that presentations given in modern browsers shouldn't copy the limits of 'classic' slide decks?

Would you like to impress your audience with stunning visualization of your talk?

then you should try

impress.js*

* no rhyme intended

by positioning,
rotating and
scaling them on a

It's a presentation
inspired by
and based on transformations
modern browser

thoughts
Q1

then you should try

mpress.js*

It's a presentation tool
inspired by the idea behind prezi.com
and based on the power of CSS3
transforms and transitions in modern browsers.

Are't you just bored with all those slides (as in prezi.com)?
Follow along at
<http://172.30.71.185:8080/8080>

Don't you think that presentations
given in modern browsers
shouldn't copy the limits of
"crashy" old devices?

Would you like to
impress your audience with
stunning visualization of your
talk?

the only limit is your imagination

want to know more?
use the source, Luke!

one more thing...
I've noticed in XP
that you don't have to have your own XP
to use it

visualize your big thoughts

by position
rotating scaling the
infinite canvas

then you should try
impress.js

* no rhyme intended

It's a presentation tool
inspired by the idea behind prezi.com
and based on the power of CSS3
transforms and transitions in
modern browsers.

and tiny ideas

visualize your
big
thoughts

by positioning,
rotating and
scaling them on an
infinite canvas

Visualize your thoughts with an infinite canvas and positioning, rotating, scaling them

s.js
*

It's a presentation tool

and based on the power of CSS3

inspired by the idea behind prezi.com

one more thing...

Want to know
use the source

the only li
imagi

by positioning,
rotating and
scaling them on an
infinite canvas

the only limit is your
imagination

want to know more?
use the source, Luke!

want to know more?

use the source, Luke!

ISIA

and tips here

one more thing...

have you noticed it's in 3D?

* beat that, prez! ;)

one more thing...

have you noticed it's in 3D?

* beat that, prez! ;)

then you should try
impress.js*

* no rhyme intended

It's a presentation tool
inspired by the idea behind prezi.com
and based on the power of CSS3
transforms and transitions in
modern browsers.

by positioning,
rotating and
scaling them on an
infinite canvas

visualize your
big thoughts

the only limit is your
imagination

want to know more?
use the source, Luke!

one more thing...

